OPTICIAN

1 Vision Care for Homeless People has officially opened a new centre in Leeds, inviting Leeds Rhinos prop forward Anthony Mullally to cut the ribbon. He spoke about supporting vulnerable people in the community at St George's Crypt in Leeds, where the centre is based. Mullally said: 'I believe people in a fortunate position like myself have a responsibility to give more than we take. I don't understand why, in this day and age, people are living on the street – it's something that has always bothered me.' It was Vision Care for Homeless People's eighth UK clinic, and will be run by local optometrists led by Caroline Clarke.
